Last week we were in error in saying that $40 dollars was taken in at the public supper by the Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church. The amount was over $90.

C. J. Richardson has returned from a visit to his old home on Jackson's River, where he went to take a deer hunt. Only six days are allowed as a open season for deer in the Old Dominion.

The Ladies Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, held a public meeting in the Church Thursday. A large congregation was present. A number of addresses and papers were read on various missionary subjects and phases of the work of the society.

A walk is being built from the Temporary Court House building to Camden Avenue. This is a good thing as it enables dozens of school children to get to school, and ladies can get up or down town without having to pass the crowds which congest Main Street on public days.

Mr and Mrs E. M. Sutton, of St Louis, who have been visiting in the county the past three months have returned to their western home. It is twenty years since they left the county, and they marked with surprise the great development which had taken place in their absence.

David Dean has recently returned from an extended trip to his native county of Lewis, which he left twenty years since. In that time nearly all his boyhood friends have died or left, but there were still many of his kindred to greet him. While at Weston he paid a visit to the Asylum, which he had not seen since it was completed. He saw and spoke with Dr Susan Price, of Marlinton, who is an assistant superintendent there. He is enthusiastic in his praise of the care taken of the patient, and of the management of the institution.

Professor Waitman T. Barbe, of Morgantown gave an interesting and instructive address on educational matters at the court house to large audience Monday night. He went on to Durbin Tuesday delivering another address there.

The Ladies of the Methodist church will give a Bazaar at the temporary court house on Friday the 14th day of December 1906, commencing at 4 p. m. Refreshments will also be served. Ladies, especially urged to come and buy their Christmas supplies. Proceeds for Church purposes.

At this season many people with only a day or so to spare from business are kept out of the woods because of the cumbersome-ness of tents and the inherent or imagined inconvenience of spending a night in the open. This is not as bad as we, of this house dwelling age think. We slept a number of nights in the rain or indifferently sheltered from the snow by a thatch of spruce bough before we discovered that a few yards of ducking easily carried in the hunting coat pocket, stretched at an angle before a fire was the best tent for two or three persons obtainable anywhere. Stretched properly the weather is turned and the fire is reflected by it.

J. A. Sheets, of Greenbank, has been visiting his brothers on Beaver Dam the past week. He is one of the fruit growers to suffer much damage by the early freezes this year. He lives in the limestone belt southeast of Greenbank, one of the best fruit sections to be found any where, and has given special attention to fruit culture. Over two hundred of his fine improved peach trees, just coming into bearing were killed outright, and a large number of apples. He reports that in a recent hunt his brother killed three wildcats in one day. One was an immense animal.

The victims of the recent raid at Dunlevie were giving an examination Thanksgiving day before Squire Bird, and afterward were fed at the county's board as all were committed to jail in default of bond with the exception of Grant Halterman, who had friends to stand for him. Those in jail are Johnny McGraw, "Smity," and another who refuses, for reason best known to himself to divulge his identity. He and Smity were cleared of their murderous attack upon the officers while under arrest by a technicality. In making the raid Mr Cochran had failed to give Simmons and Ruckman the warrants for the house they were to pull.

C. W. Mustoe found the trouble he was looking for in Justice Bird's Court Saturday evening. He had been disorderly at Seebert and was put under arrest, but upon his promise to leave town was allowed to go. He caused trouble on the train and was arrested by the conductor, who gave him over to Sergeant Yeager. Squire Bird assessed his fine at $25 and costs. The prisoner seemed to have no money and he was committed to jail. Upon searching him, the jailer discovered a saw hidden away in the seam of his coat. The saw is of the finest case hardened steel, and it was the evident intention of the prisoner to free himself or some friend who is being retained for his country's good. It is not a generally known fact that a conductor of a train is a conservator of the peace, with power to make arrests. The lowest fine for disorderly conduct on a train is $25.

Mr Rucker is building an addition to his new house. Charley Dille, one of the best shots in this county, says he has a gun with which he can clip the whiskers of a gnat at a hundred yards.

Geo. H. Hefner is thinking of going to the State of Washington in the spring. Ken Kennison expects to start to New Mexico in the near future.

ANOTHER KILLING

In The Sinks
Word was received here Tuesday morning of the killing of Elijah Arbogast by Stanton Lambert at the home of Isaac Arbogast in the Sinks, eighteen miles above Durbin, and about a mile from the scene of the pedler's murder by May and Lamb, a year ago.

The particulars of the affair are that Arbogast and Lambert had made five gallons of an intoxicating drink called moethognon, and had left it at Arbogast's with the understanding that it should not be opened until both were present.

Monday evening Arbogast had a number of friends at his home and they were making merry over the moethognon. About six o'clock Lambert put in his appearance, carrying a double barrel shot gun. Arbogast banteringly asked him what he thought about his breaking the cask, and Lambert replied that he did not like it. Hot words followed, and Arbogast said he would "put the cleaner" on Lambert and asking him out in the yard, Lambert took his gun and went about a dozen steps from the house, Arbogast was coming on, but he was stopped and held by Kay Mullenax. He struggled loose from his friends grasp and when within eight or ten feet, Lambert shot him with a load of no. 3 shot he charge taking effect in the left side about three inches above the nipple. The shot ranged down entering the heart, lungs and bowels. Death resulted instantly.

Lambert then went to his home about a mile distant, and started to Marlinton to surrender to the authorities. At Bartow he met Squire Oliver and the Prosecuting Attorney, and gave himself up to them. From his appearance, he is about 27 years of age.

Arbogast was in his 28th year, and is a son of Isaac Arbogast. Squire Oliver and Prosecutor Hill held the inquest Tuesday. A verdict was rendered in accordance to the above facts, and Lambert was sent to jail.

The C. O. D. Business.

The following letter has been received by F. M. Sydnor, express agent at Marlinton, from Hon. Elliott Northcott, District Attorney, in reply to an inquiry as to what was to be done about the C. O. D. packages which had begun to be showered in at this office on every passenger train:

Dear Sir:
In reply to your letter of Nov. 26th I would beg to state that Judge Dayton holds that where an express package of whiskey is shipped C. O. D., the sale takes place at the place of delivery; that the party shipping and the party delivering are guilty of violating the law.

As to Judge Goff's opinion, I have not seen it, and can only tell you what Judge Dayton is holding here at this term of court.

Yours respectfully,
ELLIOTT NORTHCOTT,
United States Attorney.
This will have some tendency to stop the stream of C. O. D. packages which began to pour in the day after Judge Goff rendered his decision, legalizing the delivery of all packages which had been ordered in good faith.

No trace could be had of the robbers, but it was supposed to be the work of a gang of thieves who have been breaking houses along the whole line of the C. & O., but later suspicion pointed to the agent himself, who was shot in the leg, and he is now under arrest.
